Household Furnishings Being Transported From Hagerstown To New York Spilled And Badly Damaged When Attempt At Double Passing Causes Wreck.

An information, charging Samuel Heininger, fled Lion Route 4, with reckless driving, will be sworn out before Justice of the Peace Howard Blocher, Littlestown, as the result of an automobile accident on the Hanover road, two miles west of Brushtown, at 9 o'clock, Sunday evening in which five persons were injured, one seriously.

Mrs. Augusta McKenzie, of Hagerstown, is believed to have been hurt internally in the accident, and is a patient at the Hanover General hospital. Mrs. McKenzie and her husband were sitting on the rear of a truck, loaded with furniture, which was in transit from Hagerstown to New York city.

In the accident, the truck hit a telephone pole and toppled over, throwing the household furniture and furnishings into a hay field. Much of the furniture was damaged.

According to Patrolman C. W. Achenbach, of Gettysburg, who investigated, the accident occurred when Heininger attempted to pass the truck and another machine, driven by Charles Slonaker, of Fairfield, when the latter two machines were abreast. Heininger's machine is said to have sideswiped Slonaker's car, forcing it against the truck, causing the latter to hit the pole and upset.

After staying at the scene of the accident a short time, according to the patrolman, Heininger drove away. Slonaker remained at the scene and took the injured to the Hanover hospital. The other four persons who were cut and bruised were also on the truck. They were treated at the hospital, and afterward were discharged.

KNOUSE ADDING VINEGAR PLANT

Pleach Glen Industry Is Expanding; Name Is Changed To Knouse Corporation.

M. E. Knouse, of Biglerville, today announced that the name of the Knouse and Fohl canning company, Peach Glen, has been changed to the Knouse Corporation. "The concern is no longer merely a canning company," Mr. Knouse said, "for several farms are owned and a vinegar plant is being installed."

A. N. Fohl, Gardners, who was a partner with Mr. Knouse in the business for about two months after the company started in 1925, is still employed at the canning plant.

Mr. Knouse said a vinegar plant, with a capacity of 800,000 gallons, is being installed at Peach Glen, and will be placed in operation in the fall.

The plant cans apples and beans.

Sawmill Damaged In Upper End Fire

Damage estimated at $50 was caused by fire at the sawmill of Charles Taylor, of near Brysonia, on Edgewood farm, along the Old Potato road, between Bendersville and Arendtsville, Saturday afternoon. A spark, believed to have lodged in a pile of lumber, smoldered for a week or 10 days, and broke into flame Saturday afternoon.

The fire was discovered by Donald Garretson, who went to the mill for a load of lumber. He notified Taylor and others in the vicinity, and the blaze was extinguished before the Biglerville fire company arrived. Workmen at the sawmill stopped work at noon, Saturday, but failed to see fire in the pile of lumber.

A quantity of lumber, part of the building over the sawmill and part of the mill itself were damaged in the fire.

Dr. Aberly Gives Twilight Sermon

Between 600 and 700 persons attended the first of a series of twilight services at "The Pines" Lutheran church, near New Chester, the Rev. J. Harold Little, pastor, Sunday evening. The weather was ideal.

Dr. John Aberly, president of the Lutheran theological seminary here, was the speaker, and his sermon was presentation of the words of Jesus: "Follow Me." The Gable family orchestra, of New Oxford, played for the service.

The next twilight service at "The Pines" will be held Sunday evening, August 11.

WEATHER REPORT

For Eastern Pennsylvania: Mostly cloudy and continued cool. Possibly showers in southeast portion tonight. Tuesday partly cloudy with rising temperature.

LEGION POST IS DICKERING FOR STORE BUILDING

Vote Wednesday On Purchase Of Gettysburg Department Store Structure.

MEMBERS ADVISED

With sale of the Gettysburg department store, Baltimore street, pending, the Albert J. Lentz American Legion post, of Gettysburg, will vote on a proposition to purchase the three-story building in which the business is located, at a special meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Letters explaining the proposition to the Legionnaires were received from Neil W. Gibson, adjutant, by the ex-service men today.

Sale of the department store business is expected to be consummated Tuesday or Wednesday. The prospective purchaser was not disclosed today.

Would Lease Store

The executors of the estate of the late J. Frank Hartman, who owned a controlling interest in the department store, are planning to dispose of the business and a prospective buyer has been secured. This fact has been communicated to Attorney John P. Butt, commander of the Lentz post, and the Legion is being given an opportunity to buy the real estate involved.

According to Adjutant Gibson's letter, the Legion would lease the basement, first floor and half of the second floor to the prospective purchaser of the business at a monthly rental of $155. Additional income of $20 or $25 a month would accrue from the rental of the third floor of the building for storage purposes, the adjutant's letter states, bringing the total yearly revenue from rents to approximately $2,100.

Heavy Loan Necessary

The sale price of the building will be between $17,500 and $18,000, according to Adjutant Gibson, and it would be necessary for the post to borrow about $12,500 to finance the purchase.

The post, which now occupies rooms on the third floor of the First National bank building, would occupy half of the second floor of the store building in the event the sale is consummated.

Under the by-laws of the post, a majority of the members in good standing must be in favor of the purchase of a home for the ex-service men, and officers of the Lentz post are urging a full turnout of members at Wednesday's special meeting.

CLOUDS DELAY TRIP

Though they went as high as 4,000 feet, several officials of the Fairchild airplane corporation at Farmingdale were unable to evade the clouds over the mountains west of here this morning and they abandoned a proposed trip to Hagerstown temporarily and landed at the Gettysburg airport.

CONTINUE REVIVAL

The revival services at the Gettysburg Church of the Brethren, which began last week, will be continued this week, with the Rev. H. S. Gipe, of York, in charge. The services will begin at 7:45 o'clock each evening and are open to the public.

CHINA TO ASK AID OF LEAGUE

Situation Continues Tense Along Siberian-Manchuria Border.

(By The Associated Press)

The Russo-Chinese crisis entered its second week today with a tense situation growing along the Manchurian border and the powers sought to avert hostilities.

Although the governor of Manchuria reported that Russians had opened an attack on the Chinese on the eastern border of Manchuria Saturday, there were no further dispatches to support the likelihood of a Russian invasion. Japanese dispatches from Nanking said the Chinese had decided to appeal to the League of Nations.

Meanwhile efforts will be continued to induce the Chinese and Russians to withdraw their forces along the border where clashes might easily occur.

Endurance Fliers Forced Down

The Missouri Robbin, second of two endurance planes to go aloft in St. Louis in an attempt to set a new record for sustained flight, landed this morning after having been in the air 117 hours. A leaking oil line brought the plane to earth. Dale Jackson (left) and Forest O'Brine, St. Louis aviators, flew the Curtiss ship.

The dog population of Adams county is growing.

According to figures furnished by the Pennsylvania department of agriculture which has enforcement of the dog law as one of its numerous duties, there were a total of 3,664 dogs licensed in Adams county to June 1 of this year as compared with 3,505 the first five months of 1928, and 8,841 for all of 1928.

KILLED AS HE EXPERIMENTS WITH EMERY

Wheel Bursts And Piece Pierces Heart Of Local Man's Brother.

EXPERT MECHANIC

Experimenting with an emery wheel, Elmer E. Stonesifer, 35, of Cavetown, Maryland, a brother of Walter H. Stonesifer, Gettysburg, was killed Saturday evening, when the stone broke at high speed and a piece pierced his heart.

An autopsy was performed over the body by Dr. A. L. Keim which disclosed that a piece of the stone, about an inch and a half long, had pierced his heart and the aorta and lodged in his spinal column.

The man was found by Samuel Winters about 12 feet from the emery stone, to which he had attached a gyroscope top for an experiment. While revolving at a rapid rate, the wheel broke and a piece hit Stonesifer. He had attempted to walk from the front porch where he had been experimenting to the door of the house and collapsed just as he was about to enter.

Intimate friends and brothers of the man said he was a splendid mechanic and that he had performed numerous mechanical experiments. He was formerly employed at the Moller Motor Car company, Hagerstown.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. C. M. Forney, of Baltimore; brothers, the Rev. Wade Stonesifer, of Brooklyn; Walter H., of Gettysburg, and Ernest, of Hanover. Two half-brothers and two half-sisters also survive.

Funeral Tuesday afternoon, services at 1 o'clock at the home of his father-in-law, Jacob Hoffman, by the Rev. J. Stewart Hartman. Interment in the Smithsburg cemetery.

FAITH DISPELS LIFE MYSTERY, PASTOR STATES

Living Is A Big Adventure, Rev. Ankerbrank Tells Bigler Congregation.

VISION NEEDED

"Life, with its ups and downs, is all a part of a big adventure," said the Rev. Charles M. Ankerbrank, pastor of the Biglerville United Brethren church, in his Sunday evening sermon. The text for the sermon was taken from Hebrews 11:1, which reads: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for; the evidence of things not seen."

"Faith, the keynote of the text, is made up of vision and adventure," continued the pastor. "People of today claim that there is no adventure in faith, but this is not true, for in the example of Abraham's experiences there are both vision and adventure. And Abraham's life was one built on complete faith."

"The reason life becomes an adventure is because we do not know what a new day will bring. It is this state of uncertainty that makes life worth living. At one man has explained, who was beset with many troubles, there were moments when he was down in spirit and then there were moments when he was up in the sky. It is our good moments that make life interesting. Our different adventures are all subject to the two factors, imagination and memory; the one pictures what might be and the other recalls visions of the past."

"Religion, when coupled with great faith, has wonderful possibilities. Faith should be able to carry us forward, so that we are concerned about where we are traveling in life, rather than where we are coming from. To be able to grasp the meaning of faith, we must catch the vision of Christ. The disciples and Paul saw the vision and their confidence in God was established."

"It is this same confidence in God, when allied with hope, that points a Christian to the future, with no fear whatsoever about the outcome. Even death holds no mysteries for one on the adventure of life who has faith."

TWO CONVICTS ARE SLAIN IN ALBANY RIOT

Shots By Guards Halt Them As They Rush Enmasse For Wall; Buildings Fired.

QUIET RESTORED

Albany, July 22 (AP).—Two convicts were killed by prison guards today in a riot at Clinton prison according to reports received here. The disturbance began shortly after 8 o'clock when the 1500 convicts were leaving the mess hall. As they marched out of the hall the trouble started and two guards were injured by the rioters.

The rioting convicts made a rush for the wall but a few shots fired by the guards drove them back. Assistance was called for at the barracks of the state police.

The rioters then set fire to the carpenter and weaving shops. As the milling mob had possession of the prison yard, officials were powerless to halt the progress of the flames.

The prison was said to be comparatively quiet at noon, many of the rioters having gone back to their cells.

TWO KILLED IN SKIDDING AUTO

Laurel, Md., July 22 (AP).—One man was killed instantly and another was fatally injured near here today in an automobile accident when their car skidded and crashed into a telephone pole.

Robert Brown, 25, of Washington, was instantly killed and John Wilson, 28, of Hyattsville, Md., was injured so seriously he died in a hospital.

Skidding Auto Crushes Woman Against Bridge; Is Seriously Injured

Mrs. Israel Lentz, Mother Of First Adams County World War Victim, Has Bones Broken At Highway Death Trap As She Sits To Tie Loosened Shoe String.

Mrs. Israel Lentz, Gettysburg R. 9, mother of the first Adams county man killed in the World war, was seriously injured at 10:30 o'clock this morning when a skidding automobile crushed her against the wall of the one-way covered bridge over Rock creek on the Hanover road near town.

She was taken to the Warner hospital in the Gettysburg ambulance, where a preliminary examination revealed that her left leg is broken between the knee and ankle, her right arm is broken and her left hand is so badly crushed it is feared it will have to be amputated.

Mrs. Lentz, who is 63 years of age, was on her way home from Gettysburg where she had purchased bread, and had stopped at the eastern end of the covered span to tie a shoe string. In order to tie the loosened string, Mrs. Lentz sat on a wooden runner inside the bridge.

The car which struck Mrs. Lentz, was owned by Arthur E. Vossberg, of Pittsburgh, and driven by Lukas A. Seraphic, Pittsburgh. According to Patrolman J. G. Warren, of Gettysburg, who investigated the crash, Seraphic applied the brakes about 50 feet east of the bridge when he saw another car entering the one-way structure on the west end.

The machine skidded on the road, which had been made slippery by rain, and ran into the woman, who was on the south side of the structure. Vossberg and Seraphic suffered minor cuts and bruises in the crash.

Mrs. Lentz, who remained conscious after the accident, failed to realize how seriously she was injured, and before the ambulance arrived, she asked persons in the vicinity to take the bread home and to feed the chickens.

Patrolman Warren said an information charging Seraphic with reckless driving would be sworn out as a result of the accident.

Vossberg's machine, a sedan, was badly damaged in the crash and was towed to a local garage.

Mrs. Lentz and her husband reside two miles east of Gettysburg, south of the Hanover road. The American Legion post here has named its organization for their son, Albert J. Lentz, who was killed while fighting overseas in the World war. Several years ago Mrs. Lentz was the guest of honor at a legion celebration here.

CAR TURNS OVER THrice; 6 Escape CUTS DAMAGES GIVEN BY JURY

Forced Off Road Late Saturday Near Biglerville By Auto Which Speeds Away.

Arthur Taylor, near Biglerville, and five occupants of an automobile he was driving narrowly escaped serious injury when Taylor's machine is said to have been forced from the Gettysburg-Biglerville road and rolled over three times at the south end of Biglerville at 10:30 o'clock, Saturday evening.

According to Taylor, who reported the accident to the highway motor patrol, a machine attempted to pass his car, forcing him off the highway. The driver of the other car did not stop, Taylor said, and he was unable to get the license number.

With Taylor were Dale Slaybaugh and Jerry Thomas, of Biglerville, and Miss Jennie Bly, Miss Olive Beamer and a third girl, of Bendersville.

Girl Of Six Swims 100 Feet; Dives 20

Father Of Sarah Jane Abell Issues A Challenge For Swimming And Diving Contest.

William Abell, Jr., of Gettysburg, today issued a challenge on behalf of his six-year-old daughter, Sarah Jane, for a swimming and diving contest between her and any contestant in the same age class.

According to Abell, a battle-field guide, his little girl has been diving for two years, and is as much at home in the water as boys and girls many years older.

The father today told how Sarah Jane can swim 75 to 100 feet and can dive from a height of 15 or 20 feet. "And if she would be in a contest, I believe she could swim farther and dive higher," Mr. Abell said.

Sister Angela Laid To Rest

After an illness of two years, Sister Angela, who for seven years had been a Sister of Mercy in the Gettysburg convent and teacher in the St. Francis Xavier parochial school, and previously to coming here, had been located at the New Oxford parish, died in Buffalo, New York, where she had been removed several months ago from the Harrisburg convent.

Sister Angela's last active work was performed in the Gettysburg parish, she having been moved to the Harrisburg convent when she was taken ill two years ago. For more than 30 years, she had taught in the parochial schools of many cities and towns in the Harrisburg diocese.

Requiem high mass was held this morning at 9 o'clock at the St. Mary's Catholic church, Harrisburg.

LEGION POST IS DICKERING FOR STORE BUILDING

Vote Wednesday On Purchase Of Gettysburg Department Store Structure.

MEMBERS ADVISED

With sale of the Gettysburg department store, Baltimore street, pending, the Albert J. Lentz American Legion post, of Gettysburg, will vote on a proposition to purchase the three-story building in which the business is located, at a special meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Letters explaining the proposition to the Legionnaires were received from Neil W. Gibson, adjutant, by the ex-service men today.

Sale of the department store business is expected to be consummated Tuesday or Wednesday. The prospective purchaser was not disclosed today.

Would Lease Store

The executors of the estate of the late J. Frank Hartman, who owned a controlling interest in the department store, are planning to dispose of the business and a prospective buyer has been secured. This fact has been communicated to Attorney John P. Butt, commander of the Lentz post, and the Legion is being given an opportunity to buy the real estate involved.

Additional income of $20 or $25 a month would accrue from the rental of the third floor of the building for storage purposes, the adjutant's letter states, bringing the total yearly revenue from rents to approximately $2,100.

Heavy Loan Necessary
The sale price of the building will be between $17,500 and $18,000, according to Adjutant Gibson, and it would be necessary for the post to borrow about $12,500 to finance the purchase.

The post, which now occupies rooms on the third floor of the First National bank building, would occupy half of the second floor of the store building in the event the sale is consummated.

Under the by-laws of the post, a majority of the members in good standing must be in favor of the purchase of a home for the ex-service men, and officers of the Lentz post are urging a full turnout of members at Wednesday's special meeting.

Couple Leave On Honeymoon Trip To Great Lakes After Pretty Home Wedding Saturday Evening.

In a pretty home wedding ceremony, Miss Indus Gwendolyn Oyler, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwin Oyler, Chambersburg street, became the bride of Dr. William C. Basehoar, Gettysburg dentist, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Basehoar, Carlisle, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor of St. James Lutheran church, of which the bridegroom is a member, officiated in the absence of the Rev. Edward H. Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of which the bride is a member. Nearly 200 guests were in attendance.

Ring Ceremony Used

The ring service of the Lutheran church was read before a bank of choice cut and potted flowers and plants, with a color scheme of yellow, pink, and white, against a background of green. Gladioli, snapdragons, roses, smilax and palms were used in profusion in the attractive decorations.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Dorothy McCartney, of Altoona, sang "O Promise Me" and "Beloved, It Is Morn," accompanied by Mrs. Allen Rank, of Wyomissing, who also played the wedding march. Both Miss McCartney and Mrs. Rank were classmates of the bride at the Peabody conservatory, Baltimore.

Bride Wore Ivory Satin
The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attractively attired in a princess gown of ivory satin and rose point duchess lace. She wore an heirloom veil of rose point tulle caught with pearls and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Myers, York, was gowned in green moire taffeta, trimmed in pink. She carried roses, sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Little Misses Jean Myers, Gettysburg, and Phyllis Snyder, Nutley, N. J., nieces of the bride, wore flower girls. They wore pastel shades of organdie and carried baskets of old-fashioned flowers.

On Motor Trip
Dr. Clyde Basehoar, of Hagerstown, a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

Following a reception at the home, Dr. and Mrs. Basehoar left on a motor trip to the Great Lakes. Upon their return they will reside in their newly-furnished apartment at 39 Baltimore street. For going away, the bride wore a slate blue ensemble with dark blue hat and shoes and a stone martin scarf.

TWO CONVICTS ARE SLAIN IN ALBANY RIOT

Shots By Guards Halt Them As They Rush Enmasse For Wall; Buildings Fired.

QUIET RESTORED

Albany, July 22 (AP).—Two convicts were killed by prison guards today in a riot at Clinton prison according to reports received here.

The disturbance began shortly after 8 o'clock when the 1500 convicts were leaving the mess hall. As they marched out of the hall the trouble started and two guards were injured by the rioters.

The rioting convicts made a rush for the wall but a few shots fired by the guards drove them back. Assistance was called for at the barracks of the state police.

The rioters then set fire to the carpenter and weaving shops. As the milling mob had possession of the prison yard, officials were powerless to halt the progress of the flames.

The prison was said to be comparatively quiet at noon, many of the rioters having gone back to their cells.

TWO KILLED IN SKIDDING AUTO

Laurel, Md., July 22 (AP).—One man was killed instantly and another was fatally injured near here today in an automobile accident when their car skidded and crashed into a telephone pole.

Robert Brown, 25, of Washington, was instantly killed and John Wilson, 28, of Hyattsville, Md., was injured so seriously he died in a hospital.

Skidding Auto Crushes Woman Against Bridge; Is Seriously Injured

Mrs. Israel Lentz, Mother Of First Adams County World War Victim, Has Bones Broken At Highway Death Trap As She Sits To Tie Loosened Shoe String.

Mrs. Israel Lentz, Gettysburg R. 9, mother of the first Adams county man killed in the World war, was seriously injured at 10:30 o'clock this morning when a skidding automobile crushed her against the wall of the one-way covered bridge over Rock creek on the Hanover road near town.

She was taken to the Warner hospital in the Gettysburg ambulance, where a preliminary examination revealed that her left leg is broken between the knee and ankle, her right arm is broken and her left hand is so badly crushed it is feared it will have to be amputated.

Mrs. Lentz, who is 63 years of age, was on her way home from Gettysburg where she had purchased bread, and had stopped at the eastern end of the covered span to tie a shoe string. In order to tie the loosened string, Mrs. Lentz sat on a wooden runner inside the bridge.

The car which struck Mrs. Lentz was owned by Arthur E. Vossberg, of Pittsburgh, and driven by Lukas A. Seraphic, Pittsburgh.

According to Patrolman J. G. Warren, of Gettysburg, who investigated the crash, Seraphic applied the brakes about 50 feet east of the bridge when he saw another car entering the one-way structure on the west end.

The machine skidded on the road, which had been made slippery by rain, and ran into the woman, who was on the south side of the structure. Vossberg and Seraphic suffered minor cuts and bruises in the crash.

Mrs. Lentz, who remained conscious after the accident, failed to realize how seriously she was injured, and before the ambulance arrived, she asked persons in the vicinity to take the bread home and to feed the chickens.

Patrolman Warren said an information charging Seraphic with reckless driving would be sworn out as a result of the accident.

Vossberg's machine, a sedan, was badly damaged in the crash and was towed to a local garage.

Mrs. Lentz and her husband reside two miles east of Gettysburg, south of the Hanover road. The American Legion post here has named its organization for their son, Albert J. Lentz, who was killed while fighting overseas in the World war. Several years ago Mrs. Lentz was the guest of honor at a legion celebration here.

COURT DEMAND CUTS DAMAGES GIVEN BY JURY

York Man Required To Accept $1,500 Less In Accident Case Or Conduct New Trial.

A remittitur, by which Harvey S. Deitz, York, agrees to a reduction of $1,500 in a jury's verdict in an automobile accident damage suit, tried in the local courts, has been filed in the office of Prothonotary S. L. Allison by Attorney John P. Butt, who represented Deitz.

The verdict against B. Barron, Harrisburg, was $2,500 but ten days ago, Judge D. P. McPherson stated that the verdict was "greatly excessive" and ordered Attorney Butt to take a reduction or he would grant a new trial to Barron, the defendant.

Highlights On New Game Season

Blackbirds are in season in Pennsylvania this year from August 1 to November 30. Ralls may be hunted from September 1 to November 30. Here are the facts that prove it America's finest medium-priced automobile

Below are typical examples of facts drawn from a comparison of the Oakland All-American Six with 20 leading cars in its field. Study these facts—then come to our showroom for additional information. We can give you dozens of other comparisons as further proof of Oakland's unrivaled value. And these are facts which prove the Oakland All-American to be America's finest medium-priced automobile.

What these features mean to you

Large piston displacement is needed to develop high power at moderate engine speed. Moderate engine speed is an important factor in the life of a car.

PISTON DISPLACEMENT

No name in automobile coach building means so much as Fisher. Fisher bodies are famous for style, luxury and roominess. In addition, they hold such advantages as sturdy composite of hard wood and steel construction, VV windshield, side cowl ventilation and adjustable drivers' seats.

FISHER BODY

Reasonably long wheelbase gives greater riding ease and road balance. Also permits use of longer, smarter, roomier bodies. At the same time, a small turning circle is essential to handling ease.

WHEELBASE

For safety, efficiency, convenience, smoothness and silence nothing has been found to compare with internal-expanding mechanical 4-wheel service brakes with non-squeak bands. An entirely separate emergency braking system is needed as a safety fact.

BRAKES

How Oakland compares with the field

Only one car as low-priced as Oakland surpasses Oakland's piston displacement of 228 cubic inches. Twelve cars in the field have less displacement, and five of the 12 are higher-priced than Oakland.

Only Oakland and two other cars in the field offer bodies by Fisher. And one of the two is nearly $100 higher in price than Oakland. Of the 18 cars which have less-knob bodies, 11 are priced above the All-American Six.

Only one car as low-priced as Oakland has a wheelbase as long as Oakland's, which is 117 inches. That car requires a turning circle to the left of 42 feet as compared with Oakland's 30 feet. Six higher-priced cars have shorter wheelbases.

Only Oakland and one other car, costing $200 more, use the fine type of brakes described opposite. And no car in the field equals Oakland's 290 square inches of brake band area. Oakland's separate emergency brake operates on the transmission. Seven cars in the field have no separate emergency brakes, although three of them exceed Oakland in price.

For the Love of a Lady

by Jeffery Farnol

SYNOPSIS: Helen D'Arcy, incensed and outraged by Sir Richard's baseless imputations, strikes him in the face with her whip and rides off with Gregory. Sir Richard concludes that he has misjudged her and decides on a bold course. He hurries to the village, meets Gregory and tells him that he is determined to marry the beautiful Helen. Richard spies a furtive shadow in the night and follows—it is Tom Pitt delivering a mysterious note addressed to Helen's maid, Betty. Richard finds the note where Tom left it in a garden arbour, when to his surprise Helen approaches him—Sir Richard is strangely moved and changed, a picture of love in the bright moonlight.

Chapter 23

A RADIANT DAWN

Tenderly but quickly, Sir Richard grasped his lovely burden, Helen kicking feebly and voicing mild protests. Vanished was her body's haughty spirit and disdain, that fierce temper with which she had struck Sir Richard only a few hours before.

"Why... what...?" she whispered.

"The dew," he explained. "It lies heavy and I fear for thy pretty feet."

"Oh, 'tis hateful to abuse my helplessness," but my lady's voice betrayed her utter lack of scorn and its gentleness surprised even herself.

Keeping close to the shadows of the garden, Sir Richard carried my lady, and she, nestling within his arms, felt a delightful sense of repose and comfort, so much so that she rested her head against Sir Richard's shoulder.

Thus they came to a rustic seat beneath an ancient cherry-tree and carefully he placed her upon it, seating himself beside her. Once more he unfolded the letter to the moonlight and together they read it carefully.

"Our Thomas becometh somewhat vague in places," said Sir Richard.

"But," said Helen, pointing to a certain line, "this is clear enough, and forthwith she read:

"Should you hearught of his whereabouts, hasten to tell me, for naught is well until he is back."

"Richard, surely this means you."

Into her voice had come again that exquisite note of tenderness.

There ensued a silence and Helen, grasping Richard's arm with both her hands, watched his thoughtful features as he studied Tom Pitt's scrawling—the bold line of nose and brow, the sombre eyes, the sensitive mouth and the square jut of chin... A strong face? Yes, decidedly! A good face? Beyond all doubting! Now as my lady sighed, Sir Richard turned to look into her uplifted eyes and she saw in his mobile lips a curve of unexpected tenderness.

"You feel no cold?" he questioned.

"No, indeed—oh, no!" she answered, bending to peer at the letter again. "The night is very warm. But what more make you of this rough message?"

"Well, this mention of the Haunted Mill inspires me to prophesy that verily haunted 'tis like to be. And so much for this. So come now to thyself and myself."

"And what of me?" she asked.

"Well, first thou art my Helen!"

"And thou art presumptuous!" said she, though her voice was kind, a caress and not a reproach.

"Second, thou'rt mine own special housebreaker that, caught by the very act, yet faced me daunted—"

"Nay, Richard, I vow no peril was ever more fearful than I!"

"Then art braver than I deemed said he, and took her hand in both of his. "Also 'twas to serve thy friend!" Here he raised her hair to his lips and kissed it. My lady nestled closer to Sir Richard, his slim hand still held firmly in his grasp. Again they sat silent, reluctant to break the peaceful quiet of the enchanted night. At last my lady spoke in voice meek as small:

"And... you... left your ring where you found it, the ring I have lost to one I thought you... you left it to ward suspicion from me at peril of your life... wherefore?"

"You were my friend."

"And would be so still," she answered, "thy ever grateful friend."

"Then Helen, in friendship's name, I bid you tell me where is your cat's-eye ring?"

"I lost it," she answered, turning to him in swift surprise. "But why do you—?"

"Helen, tell me how you lost it and when?"

"Nay, I'm not sure, yet I think 'twas when the marble man stared me in the face. Mistaking this man for you I grew angry and dashed my purse 'neath his horse's feet, and so fiercely that my gaudy ring flew off and with it, I think, my ring, though I missed it not until next day. But why so grave?"

"Because with his last breath Julian said to me this morning: 'Ware, Dick, the cat's-eye ring!'"

For a moment they sat utterly still, looking upon each other and never a word.

"Oh, Richard," sighed she at last in awful whisper. "Then you think he saw it... on his slaver's hand... my cat's-eye ring?"

"Would it fit a man's finger, Helen?"

"No—yes, I'm not sure, but 'twas loose on mine."

"These white fingers!" said he and took her hand into his warm, vital clasp again.

"But my ring," sighed she. "I wonder where now it is!"

"I'd give much to know!" said he thoughtfully. "But enough of this, no more of the past. I'll tell thee of the future."

"What canst thou know of the future, Richard?"

"That I shall wed thee!" he answered. "Ay—and I further prophesy that this day Richard shall suddenly vanish awhile and yet, so vanished, be nearer than thou, or any, dream. I prophesy that because thou art woman very tender and compassionate, thou shalt yet come to think of thy Richard with an ever-growing kindness, until one day perchance, shalt be glad to know him so very truly thy Richard to command. I prophesy that Richard vanished, his ghost shall yet watch over thee till at last this murder shall out—then shall he reappear to clasp, to clutch and seize thee to his heart and then—how say you, Helen?"

"Nay prophet, speak thou!" she murmured.

But, even as she uttered the words, a distant clock chimed four.

"Richard, dawn is upon us!"

"As I did prophesy!" he nodded.

"Here have we sat the night through," sighed he, "nor have I presumed to kiss thee once!"

"Indeed but you have, sir—my hands—both of them!"

"But never thy lips, Helen! Nor shall I ever until my name be clean and I myself, mayhap, something more worthy."

Now, looking into his sombre eyes, she caught her breath as if indeed she had read there something beyond expectation wonderful.

And when she had vanished into the house, he strode away, and in his eyes a radiance not of the dawn.

"And we do pronounce a verdict of wilful murder against Sir Richard Guyford of Weare, baronet."

The inquest indeed had been but a perfunctory business. Witness after witness had been called and examined while Sir Richard, crouched at the judges, had watched, listened, and learned many things about himself.

He was a sot, a careless landlord, a man of riot and evil life, a friend of gypsies, vagabonds, thieves and dangerous malefactors.

Viscount Brocklehurst had described his vicious assault upon the dead man, Captain Despard, posed briefly to the impending trial. Tom Pitt had told how, at the fatal hour, he had chanced to see Sir Richard gallop his rose furiously out of the road, flourishing a pistol in his hand. Then followed evidence as to the finding of Sir Richard's blood-stained cloak.

"And sounds!" muttered Sir Richard, "never sounded man more filthy rogue than I! But... Tom Pitt—you must clasp a pistol in my fist to damn me beyond redemption—I wonder why?"

All about him were men who were eager to drag him to a shameful doom—more especially Viscount Brocklehurst and Tom Pitt. And herefore? The one had been Julian's familiar friend, and the other, his servant. Then there was his cloak, found in the wood and smeared with blood. How came it there? A man had worn it that evening in the lane. What of Julian's dying words, the warning against a cat's-eye ring—Helen's ring, worn on the fatal pistol hand of Julian's murderer?

CHURCH PAYS EXPENSES BY FREE WILL SYSTEM

Bloomsburg, July 22 (AP).—The free will system of giving, used by the First Baptist church here, proved successful during the last year, reports at the annual meeting showed. The Rev. E. J. Radcliffe, pastor of the church for 14 years, declared that the system of free will offerings for the pastor's salary has worked out "very satisfactorily."

Two years ago he told the congregation that he preferred to share the adversity or prosperity of the members and receive offerings as salary instead of a stated amount.

Money for all purposes is contributed by the free will method; no church suppers are held, and names of contributors to the church funds are not announced.

READING FIREMEN TO GO TO WEST INDIES

Reading, July 22 (AP).—While other Reading fire companies have made long journeys in the past, the Schuylkill company, which has 500 on its roll, has organized a tourist club that will probably set a new long distance and time record.

The club is going to visit the West Indies next January, taking two weeks for the journey. The cost per man will range from $175 to $190. Fully 50 members will take the trip. Most of the journey will be by water. It will include Jamaica, Cuba, the Bahamas and other islands.

German Steamer, Bremen, To Reach Ambrose Lighthouse This Afternoon.

New York, July 22 (AP).—A radio message from the liner Bremen of the North German Lloyd office here announced she would reach Ambrose lighthouse at 2:30 p. m. today, one hour earlier than scheduled.

The seaplane, New York, carrying a cargo of mail, landed in the bay at 1:35 p. m. today from the liner Bremen where it had been catapulted from the deck.

The ship was expected to dock at 4:30 p. m., four days, 17 hours and 18 minutes after she left Cherbourg. The present record, held by the Mauretania, is 5 days, 2 hours and 34 minutes.

CAT, KITTENS AND HEN ARE IN ONE NEST

Greensburg, July 22 (AP).—The fact that a tabby cat chose a hen's nest to bring up her litter of kittens didn't worry the Cochran hen on the farm of S. C. Hollingsworth, Burgess of Derry.

While the feline family makes itself at home in the nest, the hen comes there daily to lay her eggs. The hen performs its task undisturbed by the presence of the invaders and then walks off with a cackle, which in the language of chickens may mean, "I'll be back tomorrow."

COMMUNICATION

OBSTRUCTED SIDEWALKS AND ALLEYS

Gettysburg, Pa. July 22, 1929

To The Editor, The Gettysburg Times.

Sir: Our good town is improving right along in the appearance of its homes, places of business, streets, and alleys. The various public service concerns and corporations are cooperating to the extent of removing obstructing portions of trees, useless poles, wires, etc., and planting shrubbery to aid appearances. All this is fine and commendable. It tends to the general comfort and well-being of all of us, and commends our town for its neatness, to the thousands of visitors who are continually passing through, and stopping off.

There is one point, however, Mr. Editor, that, if given attention, would add very much to the comfort of those who for one reason or another are still old-fashioned enough to walk; and to the appearance of some of the best homes in the town. I refer to the tree-canopied sidewalks in front of such homes. The trees overhang the walks so that even in dry weather an average person must take to either the lawn or the street to get by such homes. Otherwise he runs the risk of having his eyes prodded out, her synthetic tan rubbed off, or the permanent wave unwaved! And when it rains, Mr. Editor! The trees over these sidewalks resemble a tropical jungle. An umbrella at such times is a handicap to getting us through the brush, rather than a protection from the weather. And all because a few thoughtless citizens neglect the trees over their sidewalks!

The solution of this problem is quite easy. Trim the trees. Perhaps they were trimmed a year ago. So were the lawns and hedge fences. The trees tend to grow down continually and need attention just as a lawn or hedge fence. But, says some one, We don't know how to trim our trees. Then teach yourself. No need to employ a tree doctor or barber. Begin by cutting off, not whole limbs, but only those portions of limbs that project below nine feet in dry weather. In other words, give clearance for a walker carrying an umbrella. Leave no ends that might injure an umbrella. After you have made the clearance, sit on your front porch and view your trees over the sidewalk. Ask yourself whether the trees look well in the picture. Would you like them as they are, if you were buying the property? Again consider how your trees look along side of your neighbors. If to sawing; and close to the tree so that the wound will heal over readily. Tree specialists differ to the value of covering the wound with anything. A little day paint improves the appearance.

A final suggestion. Remember that a tree does not grow in a day. In a few minutes you may permanently ruin a tree that it has taken nature years to produce. Therefore when in doubt whether to remove a limb or not, pull down carefully to avoid splitting off, and have some one hold while you try to see whether or not it will be advisable to remove it. If not, perhaps the removal of some minor portion of it will touch the touch that finishes the picture. While making up your mind, remember that street trees may yield to the proper needs of pedestrians. A limb, or even a whole tree, that obstructs comfortable walking should never be allowed to obstruct the sidewalk for single day. Live, but let live. Consider your neighbors as well as yourself. Trim the trees.

The trimming or grubbing out of hedge fences that compel pedestrians to go single file, and malapassing next to impossible without ruining clothes; likewise hedge fences and trees over all property lines, ought to be stressed as other impositions on a patient public. But that, with all the garbage cans, boxes, general junk weeds and what not, is another story.

EDITOR'S NOTE: What was the world doing in the pleasant days when today's adults were youths? Forty years ago "Red" Coolidge was a student at Amherst college. A chubby-faced office boy was making good in Oregon. That was Herbert Hoover. Here is the American scene in those interesting times recreated from the transient recordings of daily happenings in a series of weekly stories.

By Alexander George

The contrasting drama of frontier life and of metropolises in the making marked the American scene of 40 years ago.

While New York was launching a skyscraper program with the erection of a "towering structure" of 11 stories, "boomers" were battling for homesteads with six-shooter and hatchet in the mad rush of '89 to the promised land of Oklahoma.

The plains of the southwest were dotted with white-capped wagons drawn by horse, mule and ox team, trains were packed and the "woods alive with settlers armed to the teeth," en route to the newly opened territory. At night a thousand campfires glimmered along the old Reno stage trail.

In the wilderness at Guthrie where the day before "antelope sported and the jack rabbit flapped its ears to the sun," a city of 15,000 sprang up in an afternoon.

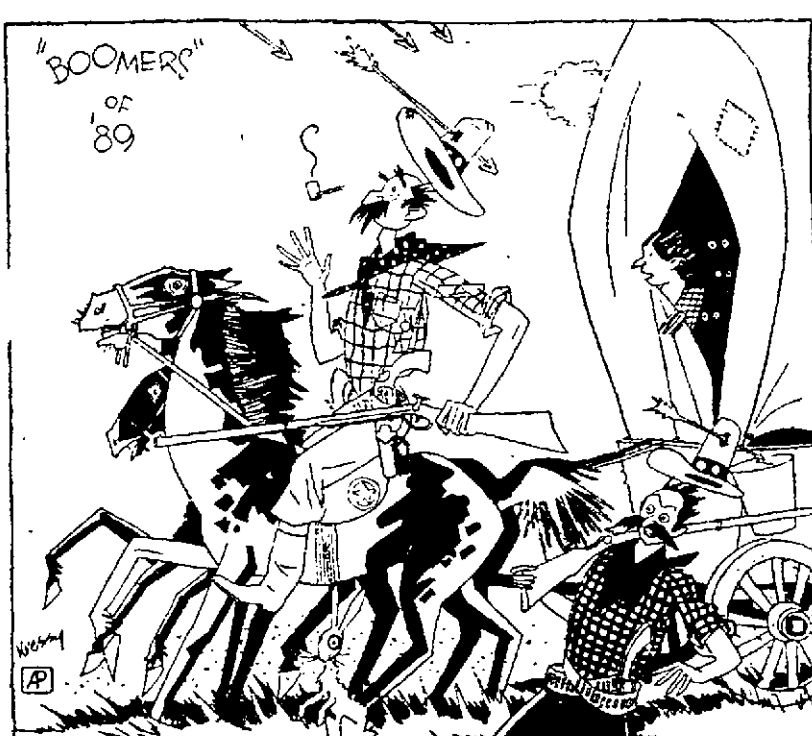

As the trains pulled in, homesteaders leaped from car windows, slipped from the roofs of coaches and poured out of the doors in the dash for coveted town lots. A muslin sign announced that the Bank of Guthrie was doing business and another shack displayed the sign "Shaving and Ice Cream."

Chicago was running a close race with Brooklyn, New York's "big sister," for the position of third city in the union. Brooklyn's population was announced as 815,000. The Chicago boosters countered with a claim of 830,000, whereupon the easterners accused the westerners of jumping calculations.

The activities of Jay Gould, the wizard of Wall street, were big news almost daily. Jim Hill was empire building in the northwest. Marshall Field was the "merchant prince" of Chicago. Carnegie, the iron master, was nearing the top of the industrial ladder, and Ward McAllister was the leader of the 400 in New York.

Mrs. Leslie Carter was starring in her own divorce trial in a Chicago court, where she testified her husband refused to buy her strawberries which cost $2 a quart.

Adrian Constantine Anson and John Montgomery Ward, the other members of the Chicago and All American baseball teams, were cheered by thousands as they paraded to the old Palmer house. They had just returned from a trip around the world on which they had been feted by royalty and "Pop" Anson had become chummy with Albert Edward, prince of Wales.

Madame Modjeska and Edwin Booth were on a joint starring tour, and Buffalo Bill and Sarah Bernhardt were sharing honors in Paris, where the Eiffel tower was officially opened for the exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Goss left last Monday afternoon for their home in Utica, Illinois, after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Hilary R. Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Smith, Mrs. Charles G. Hershey and son, Charles, Jr., spent last Wednesday at Mt. Getre.

The picnic held at Williams' Grove by the Sunday Schools of the York Springs Lutheran, Bermudian, Chestnut Grove and the York Springs Methodist churches was largely attended.

CHURCH PAYS EXPENSES BY FREE WILL SYSTEM

Bloomsburg, July 22 (AP).—The free will system of giving, used by the First Baptist church here, proved successful during the last year, reports at the annual meeting showed. The Rev. E. J. Radcliffe, pastor of the church for 14 years, declared that the system of free will offerings for the pastor's salary has worked out "very satisfactorily."

Two years ago he told the congregation that he preferred to share the adversity or prosperity of the members and receive offerings as salary instead of a stated amount.

Money for all purposes is contributed by the free will method; no church suppers are held, and names of contributors to the church funds are not announced.

READING FIREMEN TO GO TO WEST INDIES

Reading, July 22 (AP).—While other Reading fire companies have made long journeys in the past, the Schuylkill company, which has 500 on its roll, has organized a tourist club that will probably set a new long distance and time record.

The club is going to visit the West Indies next January, taking two weeks for the journey. The cost per man will range from $175 to $190. Fully 50 members will take the trip. Most of the journey will be by water. It will include Jamaica, Cuba, the Bahamas and other islands.

German Steamer, Bremen, To Reach Ambrose Light-house This Afternoon.

New York, July 22 (AP).—A radio message from the liner Bremen of the North German Lloyd offices here announced she would reach Ambrose lighthouse at 2:30 p. m. today, one hour earlier than scheduled.

The seaplane, New York, carrying a cargo of mail, landed in the bay at 1:35 p. m. today from the liner Bremen where it had been catapulted from the deck.

The ship was expected to dock at 4:30 p. m., four days, 17 hours and 18 minutes after she left Cherbourg. The present record, held by the Mauretania, is 5 days, 2 hours and 34 minutes.

CAT, KITTENS AND HEN ARE IN ONE NEST

Greensburg, July 22 (AP).—The fact that a tabby cat chose a hen's nest to bring up her litter of kittens didn't worry the Cochran hen on the farm of S. C. Hollingsworth, burgess of Derry.

While the feline family makes itself at home in the nest, the hen comes there daily to lay her eggs. The hen performs its task undisturbed by the presence of the invaders and then walks off with a cackle, which in the language of chickens may mean, "I'll be back tomorrow."

COMMUNICATION

OBSTRUCTED SIDEWALKS AND ALLEYS

Gettysburg, Pa. July 22, 1929

To The Editor, The Gettysburg Times.

Sir: Our good town is improving right along in the appearance of its homes, places of business, streets, and alleys. The various public service concerns and corporations are cooperating to the extent of removing obstructing portions of trees, useless poles, wires, etc., and planting shrubbery to aid appearances. All this is fine and commendable. It tends to the general comfort and well-being of all of us, and commends our town for its neatness, to the thousands of visitors who are continually passing through, and stopping off.

There is one point, however, Mr. Editor, that, if given attention, would add very much to the comfort of those who for one reason or another are still old-fashioned enough to walk; and to the appearance of some of the best homes in the town. I refer to the tree-canopied sidewalks in front of such homes. The trees overhanging the walks so that even in dry weather an average person must take to either the lawn or the street to get by such homes. Otherwise he runs the risk of having his eyes prodded out, or the permanent wave unwaved! And when it rains, Mr. Editor! The trees over these sidewalks resemble a tropical jungle. An umbrella at such times is a handicap to getting us through the brush, rather than a protection from the weather. And all because a few thoughtless citizens neglect the trees over their sidewalks!

The solution of this problem is quite easy. Trim the trees. Perhaps they were trimmed a year ago. So were the lawns and hedge fences. The trees tend to grow down continually and need attention just as a lawn or hedge fence. But, says some one, We don't know how to trim our trees. Then teach yourself. No need to employ a tree doctor or barber. Begin by cutting off, not whole limbs, but only those portions of limbs that project below nine feet in dry weather. In other words, give clearance for a walker carrying an umbrella. Leave no ends that might injure an umbrella. After you have made the clearance, sit on your front porch and view your trees over the sidewalk. Ask yourself whether the trees look well in the picture. Would you like them as they are, if you were buying the property? Again consider how your trees look along side of your neighbors. If the neighbors' trees are low and frowsy, take a hint from the artist, and make your picture look better by judicious trimming of your trees. Next, cross the street and see your place as the other side must see it. View your place also from in front of your next neighbors. Consider whether it is inviting to a pedestrian. Does it look airy and open, or low and repelling?

If after all this you still lack confidence in your own judgment, walk round the tree streets of the town. Note how the trees are trimmed—or neglected. Then ask yourself what homes look neatest, and how much of this is due to well-trimmed trees.

One further suggestion for those who lack experience in trimming. To cut off any limb thicker than your thumb, first saw or cut on the underside. Cut the limb one third to one half off. Stop before the saw is pinched. Then saw from the top. If the limb is large, first saw it off a foot or two out from where you wish to cut it finally. The stump can then be cut off without danger of barking the tree at the base of the limb.

But again perhaps some one asks: When shall we trim? A noted tree specialist tells us that when a boy he asked his father that question. The answer was: When your knife is sharp, son. Which suggests another point. A limb should be cut off preferably

TEN YEARS AGO

Service Men to Meet Thursday.

Soldiers, sailors and marines, who are interested in the formation of an American Legion post in Adams county, will meet at the Majestic club rooms on Baltimore street, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock to discuss the proposition.

For the past four weeks Sergeant John W. Hartman, formerly of the 316th Infantry, and Lieutenant Clyde Bream, of the 128th Infantry, have been securing the fifteen signers, necessary to secure entrance into the American Legion.

Country Flooded When Dam Broke.—Unable to stand the strain imposed on it by the force of water which increased tremendously, with the recent heavy rains, the big Laurel Dam, situated several miles from Hunters Run, in Cumberland county, broke about 8 o'clock last evening and flooded the whole countryside. Gathering increased momentum as it rushed down the mountain, the water, which had been checked only by the Laurel Dam, hurled itself against the Mount Holly Springs dam and caused it also to give way. It was reported that no lives were lost.

Record Rainfall for Past Week.

Five and one-half inches of rain fell from July 12 to July 21 in Gettysburg which is more than has fallen during any entire month of July in the last fourteen years with the exception of 1916 and 1908.

Blacksmith Shop Sold.

James M. Caldwell, who has conducted a blacksmith shop at the corner of Chambersburg and Franklin streets for more than thirty years, has sold his business to J. Warren Gelwick, of Emmitsburg. Mr. Gelwick took charge on Monday.

Select Music Teacher.

Miss Agost Borge, Madison, Wisconsin, a cousin of Mrs. Sievert Hagen, is announced by the Gettysburg School Board as the director of instrumental and vocal music.

Japanese Tea Party.

Lighted Japanese lanterns, gaudy parasols and boys dressed in attractive Oriental costumes tended to make the Japanese tea party at the Reformed church on Friday night a very beautiful affair.

To complete the idea, originally conceived by Miss Elsie Appler, chairman of the social committee, the party played Japanese games. A quartette composed of Misses Mary Eden, Floranna Hoke, Mary Appler and Ellen Tipton rendered several selections, while a duet was sung by Miss Hoke and Ralph Strever. Miss Alice Williams and Miss Lily Dougherty recited.

The committee consisted of Misses Elsie Appler, Lottie Raffensperger, Miriam Taylor and Mary Scott.

Scott-March.—Jesse A. Scott and Miss Grace Amelia March were married Friday evening by Rev. Paul Reid Pontius, at the Reformed parsonage on Carlisle street. They will reside on a farm near town.

Kahl-Bream.—Miss Ruth Bream, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bream, of Fairfield, and George H. Kahl, of Waynesboro, were married at high noon Thursday at the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harvey C. Bream, a brother of the bride, with Rev. Clark Heller and Rev. W. S. Bonnell assisting. The newlyweds will reside in Waynesboro.

Personal.—Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bushman, of Baltimore "pike," announce the birth of a daughter.

Mrs. Harriet Toot, of Baltimore street, is spending some time with relatives in Waynesboro.

Miss Sarah Kindig, of Detroit, is visiting Miss Mary Appler, of East High street.

Mrs. Lane Schofield has returned to Hill Top farm after visiting her sister, Mrs. John Schelling, in Erie.

Mrs. S. S. Neely and Miss Sarah Neely, of Lincoln avenue, left this morning on a week's trip to Asbury Park, New Jersey.

Henry Bream, of Broadway, and James Gilliland, of Carlisle street, have returned to their homes here after completing work in the wheat fields of Kansas.

Miss Verna Wisler has returned to her home on North Stratton street after spending ten days in Altoona.

The Tea Cups will hold a picnic in Tyson's woods, Flora Dale, on Friday.

Misses Mary and Nell Rummel, of Water street, are visiting at Lebanon and Mount Getzner.

Miss Mary McIlhenny, of Richmond, Virginia, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McIlhenny, East Middle street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mumper and son and daughter have returned to their home on Baltimore street, after visiting in Everett.

Curtis P. Heagey, of this place, has gone to Columbus, Ohio, where he has enlisted in the United States army.

Miss Evangeline Sieber, of Baltimore, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Crouse, Broadway.

Miss Ethel Bare has gone to York after visiting Miss Marie Bentz, of Stevens street.

Mrs. Arthur Myers and daughter, Miss Anna Myers, have returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilbert, after spending some time in Philadelphia.

Miss Louise McKnight, of Pittsburgh, is spending the month of July with Miss Elizabeth Hersh, of New Oxford.

Miss Anna Mitchell and brother, Crawford, have gone to Mercersburg after visiting Mrs. David Foreney, of Oak Ridge.

Herman Mertz, of Harrisburg, spent the week-end at his home here.

Miss Eva Deardorff, near town, is visiting friends in New York and Washington, D. C.

Miss Katherine Eckenrode has returned to her home on South Washington street after visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harvey Yingst, Middletown.

THINGS INESCAPABLE

Oh, travel this world by which roadway you choose,
And follow your bent and your will,
The dearest of treasures some day you will lose
At the foot or the crest of the hill.
On land, or on sea, and wherever you stray
You will still need your faith for the sorrowful day.

Go at this life in what manner you will,
In market, profession, or trade
The need for your courage will follow you still.
There are cares you can never evade.
Be toiler or master, but down through the years
You will still need your faith when disaster appears.

You can never escape from the burdens of men,
You can never escape from their pain,
Though you win some delight you will lose it again,
You must give up whatever you gain.
And whether you travel the high road or low,
The hurts and the aches of this life you shall know.

You may gather up riches and battle for fame
In triumph your struggle may end,
But you'll learn that for all men is life much the same,
You will still have the need of a friend.
For trouble will come as you wander about
And you'll still need your faith in the darkness of doubt.

Little Jack Rabbit

By David Cory

Well, as soon as the old bear reached the row of many-colored lollipops that grew on the lollypop tree, as I mentioned in the last story, he looked down at the wistful eyed little rabbit.

They're just as ripe as ripe can be, I think I'll pick about thirty-three. Hold out your hat and I'll drop one in it; I won't be down for another minute."

cried the Big Brown Bear in poetry.

"How do you like that big pink one?" he went on, smiling down at the little bunny's upturned face. "Very much!" shouted the little rabbit. "And that red one, too, and that one all blue; you can't drop too many, but you might drop too few!"

"Well, I never," chuckled the old bear. "Why should lollipops make one poetical? They do say that poets are born, not made. They ought to be stamped, 'Made in Germany,' or 'Born in America,'—it might help us to understand what they versify!"

Well, anyway, the old bear kept on picking the lollipops and filling his coat pockets. Pretty soon, bulging at the hips, he carefully slid down the tree and walked over to the big wooden bench near his doorstep.

"Come, hop up beside me. We'll sing the lollypop song," he remarked, moving to one side to make room for his little rabbit friend. "Now, hold up your lollypop!" Up went the little bunny's paw, and up went the big furry paw of the old bear, each holding aloft a lollypop.

"Hip, hip, hurray! I lick a lollypop every day!" they shouted, both together, all at once, just at the same time. Goodness me, how that college yell, if we may call it such, echoed in the Whispering Glen, far from the homes of busy men! The birds that heard it smiled, knowing how happy was their little friendly rabbit. Even Danny Fox in his den in the rocks chuckled and remarked to his wife: "Sweets make Little Rabbits fat. I hope Little Jack Rabbit grows so fat he won't be able to hop fast enough to escape me."

Well, pretty soon the lollipops were all licked to a frazzle—nothing remained but the little sticks. "Have another," cried the old bear, handing the little bunny a juicy yellow one, and holding up a big purple one, he nodded to his little long eared comrade and together, both at once, just at the same time, they sang all over again the lollypop song.

"Hip, hip, hurray, I lick a lollypop every day," and not until the very last lollypop had disappeared did the little rabbit remember the errand for his mother.

"Oh, Mr. Bear, Mr. Bear!" suddenly exclaimed the little bunny. "I almost forgot that mother wants a clothes pin. I must hop down to the Three-in-One Cent Store at once. Goodbye, dear Mr. Bear," and away hopped the little rabbit, clipperly clip, lipperty lip, right into the next story.

Famous Mayo Brothers To Get English Degrees

Manchester, England (AP)—Two famous American surgeons, the Mayo brothers of Rochester, Minn., will be the recipients of unique educational honors here July 24 when honorary degrees are bestowed at Manchester university.

They are bracketed with Lord Dawson of Penn, the personal physician of the king of England, to receive degrees of doctors of laws. As far as is known, it is the first time in English history that two brothers will have received honorary degrees at the same time.

The degrees will be conferred upon Dr. Charles H. Mayo and Dr. William J. Mayo when they visit Manchester in connection with the conference of the British Medical association. Their reputations extend throughout Europe.

A special occasion is being made of the conferring of the degrees, which they will receive from the hands of the earl of Crawford and Balcarres, chancellor of the university. The three will be the only honorary degrees bestowed at that

Prosecutions
During June officers of the game commission brought 203 prosecutions for violation of the game laws. The majority of the charges were for dogs chasing game during the close season.

Goshawks
Two additional records of the goshawk have been secured. These came from Somerset county near the West Virginia line. They are the only southern Pennsylvania records for this species recorded thus far.

Farmers Kill Deer
Thirty-nine deer were killed by farmers during June as a protection to property. Twenty-nine of these were retained for food, six were sent to charitable institutions and four were unfit for use.

The House Cat
If motorists would forget to apply the brakes when the sneaking house cat is foraging along the highway at dusk, a great saving of young game birds and animals would be effected. Everyone naturally dislikes the idea of "doing away" with "tabby" but when you see a cat pounce upon a full-grown rabbit and have reached the jugular vein even before you can jump from your car to prevent the slaughter, your mind is changed considerably. Field officers of the game commission witness such incidents almost daily and they account for a good many homeless cats, too.

bounty, amounting to $1,595, were paid by the game commission. 1218 weasels, 89 gray foxes, three red foxes, and one wild cat were probated. The bounty on the Red Fox was removed effective May 14, 1929. The three claims on the red fox paid during June covered animals which had been taken prior to May 14.

TEN YEARS AGO

Service Men to Meet Thursday.
Soldiers, sailors and marines, who are interested in the formation of an American Legion post in Adams county, will meet at the Majestic club rooms on Baltimore street, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock to discuss the proposition.
For the past four weeks Sergeant John W. Hartman, formerly of the 316th Infantry, and Lieutenant Clyde Bream, of the 128th Infantry, have been securing the fifteen signatures, necessary to secure a charter into the American Legion.
Country Flooded. When Dam Broke.—Unable to stand the strain imposed on it by the force of water which increased tremendously, with the recent heavy rains, the big Laurel Dam, situated several miles from Hunters Run, in Cumberland county, broke about 8 o'clock last evening and flooded the whole countryside. Gathering increased in momentum as it rushed down the mountain, the water, which had been checked only by the Laurel Dam, hurried itself against the Mount Holly Springs dam and caused it also to give way. It was reported that no lives were lost.
Record Rainfall for Past Week.—Five and one-half inches of rain fell from July 12 to July 21 in Gettysburg which is more than has fallen during any entire month of July in the last fourteen years with the exception of 1916 and 1908.

Blacksmith Shop Sold.—James M. Caldwell, who has conducted a blacksmith shop at the corner of Chambersburg and Franklin streets for more than thirty years, has sold his business to J. Warren Gelwicks, of Emmitsburg. Mr. Gelwicks took charge on Monday.

Select Music Teacher.—Miss Aagot Borge, Madison, Wisconsin, a cousin of Mrs. Sievert Hagen, is announced by the Gettysburg School Board as the director of instrumental and vocal music.
Miss Borge is a graduate of the musical department of the University of Wisconsin. She has about eight years experience as a teacher.

Japanese Tea Party.—Lighted Japanese lanterns, gaudy parasols and boys dressed in attractive Oriental costumes tended to make the Japanese tea party at the Reformed church on Friday night a very beautiful affair.
To complete the idea, originally conceived by Miss Elsie Applier, chairman of the social committee, the party played Japanese games. A quartette composed of Misses Mary Eden, Floranna Hoke, Mary Appeler and Ellen Tipton rendered several selections, while a duet was sung by Miss Hoke and Ralph Strevig. Miss Alice Williams and Miss Lily Dougherty recited.

The committee consisted of Misses Elsie Applier, Lottie Rafzonsperger, Miriam Taylor and Mary Scott.

Scott—March.—Jesse A. Scott and Miss Grace Amelia March were married Friday evening by Rev. Paul Reid Pontius, at the Reformed parsonage on Carlisle street. They will reside on a farm near town.

Kahl—Bream.—Miss Ruth Bream, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bream, of Fairfield, and George H. Kahl, of Waynesboro, were married at high noon Thursday at the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harvey C. Bream, a brother of the bride, with Rev. Clark Heller and Rev. W. S. Bonnell assisting. The newlyweds will reside in Waynesboro.

Personal.—Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bushman, of Baltimore, announce the birth of a daughter.
Mrs. Harriet Took, of Baltimore street, is spending some time with relatives in Waynesboro.

Miss Sarah Kindig, of Detroit, is visiting Miss Mary Applier, of East High street.

Mrs. Lane Schofield has returned to Hill Top farm after visiting her sister, Mrs. John Schelling, in Erie.

Mrs. S. S. Neely and Miss Sarah Neely, of Lincoln avenue, left this morning on a week's trip to Asbury Park, New Jersey.

Henry Bream, of Broadway, and James Gilliland, of Carlisle street, have returned to their homes here after completing work in the wheat fields of Kansas.

Miss Verna Wisler has returned to her home on North Stratton street after spending ten days in Altoona.

The Tea Cups will hold a picnic on Tyson's woods, Flora Dale, on Friday.

Misses Mary and Nell Rummel, of Water street, are visiting at Lebanon and Mount Getzner.

Miss Mary McIlhenny, of Richmond, Virginia, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McIlhenny, East Middle street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mumper and son and daughter have returned to their home on Baltimore street, after visiting in Everett.

Curtis F. Heagey, of this place, has gone to Columbus, Ohio, where he has enlisted in the United States army.

Miss Evangeline Sieber, of Baltimore, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Crouse, Broadway.

Miss Ethel Bare has gone to York after visiting Miss Marie Bentz, of Stevens street.

Mrs. Arthur Myers and daughter, Miss Anna Myers, have returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilbert, after spending some time in Philadelphia.

Miss Louise McKnight, of Pittsburgh, is spending the month of July with Miss Elizabeth Hersh, of New Oxford.

Miss Anna Mitchell and brother, Crawford, have gone to Mercersburg after visiting Mrs. David Forney, of Oak Ridge.

Herman Mertz, of Harrisburg, spent the week-end at his home here.

Miss Eva Deardorff, near town, is visiting friends in New York and Washington, D. C.

Miss Katherine Eckenrode has returned to her home on South Washington street after visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harvey Yingst, Middletown.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Harbaugh and son, of Chambersburg street, spent the week-end in Carlisle.

THINGS INESCAPABLE
Oh, travel this world by which roadway you choose,
And follow your bent and your will.
The dearest of treasures some day
you will lose
At the foot or the crest of the hill.
On land, or on sea, and wherever you stray
You will still need your faith for the sorrowful day.

Go at this life in what manner
you will,
In market, profession, or trade
The need for your courage will follow you still.
There are cares you can never evade.
Be toiler or master, but down through the years
You will still need your faith when disaster appears.

You can never escape from the burdens of men,
You can never escape from their pain,
Though you win some delight you will lose it again,
You must give up whatever you gain.

And whether you travel the high road or low,
The hurts and the aches of this life you shall know.

You may gather up riches and battle for fame
In triumph your struggle may end,
But you'll learn that for all men
is life much the same,
You will still have the need of a friend.

For trouble will come as you wander about
And you'll still need your faith in the darkness of doubt.

Little Jack Rabbit

By David Cory

Well, as soon as the old bear reached the row of many-colored lollypops that grew on the lollypop tree, as I mentioned in the last story, he looked down at the wistful eyed little rabbit.

They're just as ripe as ripe can be, I think I'll pick about thirty-three. Hold out your hat and I'll drop one in it; I won't be down for another minute.

cried the Big Brown Bear in poetry.

"How do you like that big pink one?" he went on, smiling down at the little bunny's upturned face. "Very much," shouted the little rabbit. "And that red one, too, and that one all blue; you can't drop too many, but you might drop too few!"

"Well, I never," chuckled the old bear. "Why should lollypops make one poetical? They do say that poets are born, not made. They ought to be stamped, 'Made in Germany,' or 'Born in America,'—it might help us to understand what they verify!"

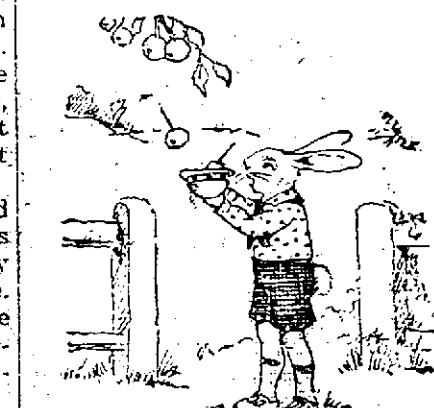

Well, anyway, the old bear kept on picking the lollypops and filling his coat pockets. Pretty soon, bulging at the hips, he carefully slid down the tree and walked over to the big wooden bench near his doorstep.

"Come, hop up beside me. We'll sing the lollypop song," he remarked, moving to one side to make room for his little rabbit friend. "Now, hold up your lollypop!" Up went the little bunny's paw, and up went the big furry paw of the old bear, each holding aloft a lollypop.

"Hip, hip, hurray! I lick a lollypop every day!" they shouted, both together, all at once, just at the same time. Goodness me, how that college yell, if we may call it such, echoed in the Whispering Glen, far from the horns of busy men! The birds that heard it smiled, knowing how happy was their little friendly rabbit. Even Danny Fox in his den in the rocks chuckled and remarked to his wife: "Sweets make little rabbits fat. I hope Little Jack Rabbit grows so fat he won't be able to hop fast enough to escape me."

Well, pretty soon the lollypops were all licked to a frazzle—nothing remained but the little sticks. "Have another," cried the old bear, handing the little bunny a juicy yellow one, and holding up a big purple one, he nodded to his little long eared comrade and together, both at once, just at the same time, they sang all over again the lollypop song,

"Hip, hip, hurray,
I lick a lollypop every day."

and not until the very last lollypop had disappeared did the little rabbit remember the errand for his mother.

"Oh, Mr. Bear, Mr. Bear!" suddenly exclaimed the little bunny, "I almost forgot that mother wants a clothes pin. I must hop down to the Three-in-One Cent Store at once. Goodbye, dear Mr. Bear," and away hopped the little rabbit, clippety clip, lipperty lip, right into the next story.

Manchester, England (AP)—Time.

Two famous American surgeons, the Mayo brothers of Rochester, founded in 1851 by John Owens, a Minn., will be the recipients of Manchester merchant. It was originally unique educational honors here, finally known as Owens college. July 24 when honorary degrees are bestowed at Manchester university, was granted in 1880, and by a subsequent charter of 1903 the institution became an independent university of the king of England, to receive degrees of doctors of laws, Victoria university of Manchester. As far as is known, it is the first time in English history that two distinguished foreigners or brothers will have received honorary degrees at the same time. The degree given is usually conferred on a doctor of laws. Occasionally upon Dr. Charles H. Mayo and Dr. William J. Mayo when they visit Britain, as in the case of the late Dr. Manchester in connection with the Adolph Brodsky, and degrees of conference of the British Medical association. Their reputations as a degree in medicine never has been given.

A special occasion is being made of the conferring of the degrees, which they will receive from the hands of the earl of Crawford and Balcarres, chancellor of the university. The three will be the only G. Adams, who received the doctor of laws degree.

Prosecutions
During June officers of the game commission brought 203 prosecutions for violation of the game laws. The majority of the charges were for dogs chasing game during the close season.

Goshawks
Two additional records of the goshawk have been secured. These came from Somerset county near the West Virginia line. They are the only southern Pennsylvania records for this species recorded thus far.

Farmers Kill Deer
Thirty-nine deer were killed by farmers during June as a protection to property. Twenty-nine of these were retained for food, six were sent to charitable institutions and four were unfit for use.

The House Cat
If motorists would forget to apply the brakes when the sneaking house cat is foraging along the highway at dusk, a great saving of young game birds and animals would be effected. Everyone naturally dislikes the idea of "doing away" with "tabby" but when you see a cat pounce upon a full-grown rabbit and have reached the jugular vein even before you can jump from your car to prevent the slaughter, your mind is changed considerably. Field officers of the game commission witness such incidents almost daily and they account for a good many homeless cats, too.

Associated Gas and Electric System

Rendering a Widely Diversified Public Service

ORGANIZED in 1882, the same year in which the first central station for incandescent lighting went into operation, Harris, Forbes & Company has long been identified with the development of the most important public utility companies in the United States and Canada—among them the Associated Gas and Electric Company, the operating subsidiaries of which provide electric light and power, gas, water or transportation services to over 1,200,000 customers in more than 2,200 communities in eighteen states, the Philippine Islands and the maritime provinces of Canada.

Serving industrial, residential and agricultural regions, the Associated Gas and Electric System now controls assets valued at more than $800,000,000, supported by gross revenues of nearly $100,000,000 annually.

Today the Associated System is one of the largest public utility systems in the United States. In reaching this position resourceful, intelligent and experienced management has played a vital part. Grouped together to secure the benefits of unified operation, the various properties have realized substantial economies in connection with purchases, financing, new construction, engineering and new business expansion.

In geographic distribution of properties, in its large number of industrial and domestic consumers, as well as in the varied nature of its services, the Associated System enjoys an exceptional degree of diversity as to income.

We invite inquiry regarding the securities of the Associated Gas and Electric Company.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

THE PERSONALITY OF FLOWERS

THE thing that draws us to other people is the personalities that they possess.

We like or we do not like a person. But it's the personality he owns that affects our judgment. It has to be accepted, however, without analysis. It stands out in color—and is the person himself.

Everything has its personality, whether animate or inanimate. Outside of persons, the personality of flowers has always attracted me most. They are nearer to being animate than anything in nature that does not move and breathe.

I cannot look the gorgeous tiny pansies in their faces without feeling that they talk to me, and this is true of every flower, large or small. These pansies are so dainty, delicate, exquisite, like little fairies sent from a rare distant clime, to tell of beauties we ought to own, or to whisper gold in messages of love and sacrifice to us.

And there are the lilies of the field that stand out so much apart in their dignified manner, looking at over their companions, but without envy or pride, just proud of their distinction.

I especially love the early violets of springtime as they creep up through the grass in the valleys and about rocks, and other out-of-the-way places.

I never see a rose but what my mind wanders to the courts of splendor where gorgeously gowned Queens, and other ladies of distinction, give to such scenes their glamour and beauty. The great, red rose, especially, what richness of beauty it conveys. How its pungent color and odor permeate the heart. And what a personality it so silently exhibits.

The other day I was examining the tiny flowers of the woodbine, dressed in their wedding array. And the same day I sat upon a stone wall and watched the bees snatch the honey, hidden deep within the heart of the honey-suckle. I could almost see those lovely flowers smile as they parted with their wealth, secreted like love in a lonely human heart. I knew how glad they were to have had so that they could give.

That friend is a rare one of whom you can think of the garden of flowers in his heart.

For the Love of a Lady

by Jeffery Farnol

SYNOPSIS: In the delightfully romantic setting of a garden or house under a brilliant moon, the cruel misunderstandings of Helen and Richard vanish, and in their place comes tender love. Helen, nestled against Richard's arm, explains the loss of her cat's-eye ring—that sinister object seen by John on his lover's hand—ring she lost to the masked man who also took Sir Richard's signet, found beside Helen's body. Helen ends the story and that day, Richard, crouching at the gates in the rain, hears himself condemned as villain, and slayer, at the feet of the law. The law pronounces a verdict of self murder against him.

DICK FULLALOVE

SIR RICHARD, secure in his hiding-place in the inn, sat staring, seeking an answer to a strange puzzle of a cat's-eye ring, a blood-stained riding cloak, the damning testimony of Viscount Brocklehurst and Tom Pitt. Finally, he was roused by John Bly, the landlord, bringing his supper.

John, setting down his tray, jerked thumb at the judas in the corner:

"You heered ari the evidence, Sir Richard?"

"Every word, John. I've heard myself proved so absolute a murderer that I blame none for so be-

"Yes, my love, but in especial—Dick!" sighed Angela.

"Oh, miss, and what will you suggest?"

"Only that you sometimes ride o' nights to meet a—Richard!"

"Ah—who told you this?"

"Why, Helen . . . 'twas but a word spoke me by Viscount Brocklehurst."

Now as they turned into a walk that led between tall yew hedges, they came full upon a tall country fellow busied with a rake.

"Why, who are you?" demanded my lady.

"The odd man, ma'm," he answered, touching the floppy brim of his shapeless hat.

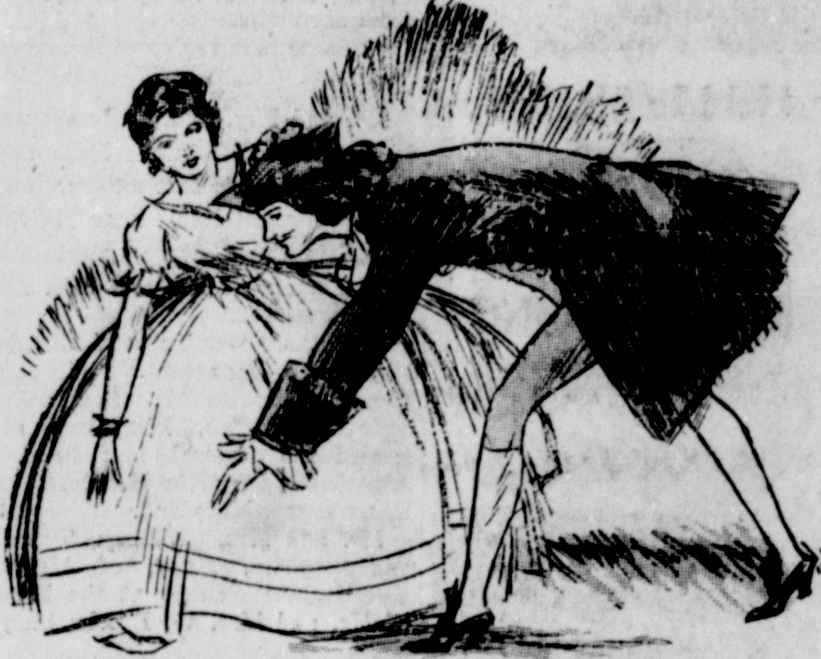

"Odd man, what is your name?"

"Dick, ma'm. Dick Fullalove, I be!"

For a moment my lady stared on this man, but saw only the crown of his weather-beaten hat, a wide, flat back and two very brown muscular arms.

"And there," laughed Angela, as they crossed the smooth lawn, "there is your man with a man's name, Dick, otherwise Richard, my dear soul! And—full o' love."

Some half hour later, the Marquis, making his profoundest reverence to this bewitching pair, opened his languid eyes rather wide to take in all the radiant loveliness of this slimly elegant creature.

Helen heard Brocklehurst's hissing gasp; both reached for the note.

"Um . . . ah! . . ." stammers the Marquis, "pon my soul . . . the day . . . very warm!"

"Truly, sir, come we into the shade," laughed my lady. "Thus, my dear Ned, this Angela o' mine is creature so bitter 'gainst all man-kind, so disdainful o' love and scornful o' matrimony that she contemplates a nunnery!"

"Heaven forbid!" quoth the Marquis.

"She is set in her determination, Ned. Alas, nought is there may save her from herself and immolation except—"

"What, madam, what?"

"Except—oh, plagues and scorpions—there is that odious Brocklehurst! Let me hide!"

But the Viscount had seen them, and forthwith minced across the wide lawn. So perforce they bowed, all four.

"Madam," said the Viscount, proffering slim hand, "shall we walk?" My lady hesitated but, observing Angela's shy-sweet eyes and the unusually wide-awake air of the Marquis, she moved away with the Viscount along the yew-shaded walk.

"Helen," said he in his quick, nervous manner, "Helen, I've adored since first I met thee."

"Then would you'd met another!"

"Ah, do not flout me; you were wiser not. When, when wilt marry me?"

"Never, Viscount!"

"Howbeit, yet I do adore thee, Helen!"

"Helgho!" sighed she. "We find the man becomes monotonous."

"What o' this—country squire, this Guyford?"

"And now," sighed my lady, "we will retire, for the man becometh an odious impertinent!"

"Forgive . . . forgive . . . pity me!" he pleaded, but through shut teeth. "Truly I am ever your most obedient servant—"

"And tattle of me with my servants!" she retorted disdainfully.

She heard the soft hiss of his breath, saw his staring eyes dilate and, following his gaze, beheld a piece of torn paper, read thereon two words in straggling scrawl, then he had snatched it up.

My lady Helen stood for a moment, gasping, while the Viscount unfolded the message. Before he had opportunity, however, to scan its contents, my lady thrust forth imperious hand, demanding the missive.

What is this note that holds the Viscount's gaze so transfixed? Read the message in Monday's chapter.

dent of the club, declared. Later an emergency service will be installed which will include towing for planes forced down, furnishing mechanics for repairs and the furnishing of transportation for pilots and passengers forced down in this territory. Air travel weather information also likely will be added.

Experts say that business letters should have imagination and honesty. But the imagination is what makes some of them dishonest.

LANCASTER TO HAVE AIR REPAIR SERVICE

Lancaster. — The Lancaster Automobile Club will after August 1 establish an air travel division, the directors have announced.

Special air travel maps will be added to the regular touring bureau facilities of the auto club and other data on aviation will be obtained for use of the flying members, as a start to an ambitious program, S. Edward Gable, presi-
